Like his Grandma Helen, he loved to play pool. He was in many pool tournaments. He loved to hunt and went on a yearly hunting trip with his Dad, Uncle Rick, Nick Bemer, and Joe McGinnis.

Jory's love of sports led him to coaching. He coached in Bainville, Brockton, Circle, and Wolf Point. He also coached his daughters' T-ball and Lil Cowgirls traveling basketball team. In the last few days, numerous messages from former players have been sent saying how he was not only their coach, but a mentor and in later years a friend. Jory loved coaching and always had a new quote of motivation before each game. One of his biggest memories of coaching basketball is winning the District B championship in Wolf Point.

Jory taught in Culbertson, Brockton, Circle and Poplar. He loved teaching, but he especially loved teaching Math. He also worked as a Seismograph Tech for his Uncle Rick, helped his Uncle Bob at his business, worked at the safflower plant, helped his brother-in-law Joe with his White Horse Construction business and as an oil roustabout. This last year he worked on the farm of Don and Betty Johnson. He enjoyed working there because of the wonderful family that they are. He worked with the
