"Ted"

Theodore (Ted) Edward Dockweiler, born October 2, 1937 in Baker City, Oregon to Edward and Eva Dockweiler passed away August 30, 2021 in Sidney, Montana.

Ted acquired his work ethic early in life delivering newspapers, working on vegetable farms and working on a dairy farm in the La Grande, Oregon area. Ted worked in both the logging and construction industry throughout his adult life. He owned and operated his own logging business for over twenty years in the Baker City, Oregon area. In the mid 1980's he worked with writer and movie producer Chuck Sellier maintaining equipment and building movie props. He was well known for his mechanical and operating skills, and he was still being asked to work construction at the age of 80.

Ted joined the United States Army National Guard in March of 1956. He proudly served his country until October 1961.

Ted was an avid outdoorsman. He treasured his time spent hunting and fishing with his family. His friends and family have fond memories of camping out in the mountains around Baker, four-wheeler rides, cooking over the campfire, hiking, and mining at the family cabin.
